No Exidence of Regret.

The Speaker taiked calmiy when he referred to the Baltimere convention, and when he told his colleagues he was mindful of the fact that his course in this crisis might mean the end of his public, career, there was no evidence of regret or of alarm in his voice or demeanor.

The Speaker said he had no harsh word to speak of any of his colleagues who had criticized him, but he referred to some of them, Repleschitative Henry, of Texas, who led the light for the clother rille on the repeal bill, Representative Sherley and Representative Hardwick, who had aided in that fight. The House was moved to uproarous laughter when the Speaker said, referring to Mr. Hardwick:

"So far as the gentleman from Georgia is concerned I say; Shoo, fly, don't bother me. Shoo, fly, don't bother me. Shoo, fly, don't bother me. Shoo, fly, don't better me. The House basented attentively to the Speaker's argument against the tolls repeal, his assertion that he believed the President was mistaken, his argument that the Canadian Paeille Railrond and the Telluantepec National Railway would most profit by the toll exemption, and his eloquent appeal argument, selection is defined and the Telluantepec National Railway would most profit by the toll exemption, and his eloquent appeal argument isolong the interest to the end, the Three Questions involved.

Republican Leader Mann told the onse three questions were involved a repeal of the Panama tolls expunding—treaty rights, moral rights, and from treaty rights, moral rights, and from treaty construction, and the enomic policy involved. The econolic question neighbor to the first of the mains of the said, but a necision on treaty gits must be a lasting one. He mains and that no construction of the Hay-amediate treaty compelied the Unit-States to charge the same tolls on a own ships or those of Panama as ere levied on these of other nations. A reading of the rules to be observed by nations to receive equal eatment, he said, "plainly discloses at they are not applicable to the nited States or Panama." England's attempt to secure her astruction of the treaty at this time had for its present effect. It is for a long distant future. If we conclude the treaty according to the Englands at the sure to rise and emerates us whenever we have war with her countries. War is not destrable, it it is inevitable. We cannot always a lattan peace.

"If we agree now to the English concuction, it is certain that in the further when we have a war with Japan. China, or rome other country, questions will arise in reference to their e and our use of the canal, especilly as to war vessels, and in that he of stress we will be met with the mentalion by England, present ally of pan, or by some other country, that have already construed that treaty Best Food Idea

It may surprise these obsequious courtiers to know that I never hinted to any human being that I would be a candidate in 1916, and that I am not a candidate. Consequently, their slander has been a gratuitous mental degradation."

Wishes President Well.

Continuing, Speaker Clerk said: "I never entertained the slightest ill will toward the President about the Baltimore convention. I wish him well. I did all I could to elect him. I have called upon to bolt the platform. I absolutely refuse to do any such thing. "The fact that I am making this fight for our platform pledges may end my public career.
